Govt Pro: No 9372-73/H.975

d: 22/5/01 which allows railway fare to the Amildar of a Taluk and his estbt: when travelling by rail within their jurisdiction, appears, it is subd to have been passed on the analogy of art 1133(a) of the British Service Regulations which states that such officers are entitled when travelling by rail within their jurisdiction to the travelling allowance admissible under chap. XLVII art: 1105 to 1125. This chapter includes art 1107 which allows double railway fare It is however not clear what the practice is in the British Provinces. May the Comptroller be requested to ascertain and report the same before passing final orders on the question raised.

With reference to para (1) above, the comptroller's reply (letter No. 2719 d: 30/10/01) is subt. He says that under r/s 1133 of the British Service Regulations, Tahsildars and Tahsildi officials in British India are entitled to double Railway fare for journeys by rail performed within their jurisdiction.

Subt for orders.

The Comptroller's suggestion was that the concession allowed by Article 1133 (a) of the British Service Regulations under which Taluk Officials travelling by Rail within their jurisdiction are entitled to Railway fare, might be extended to the Taluk Officials of the Bowringpete Taluk. This was approved in Govt. Pro No 9372-3 & 7C 975 22nd May 1901 and the Concession extended to all the Taluk Officials in the Province. This order the Comptroller now says is not clear as to whether the fare intended by Govt is single or double, though he admits that under article 1133 of the British Civil Service Regulations Tahsildars & Taluk Officials in British India are entitled to double Railway fare for journeys by Rail performed within their jurisdiction.

The Comptroller may therefore if approved, be informed that the same rates as are allowed in British India may be
